Become an Idaho Master Naturalist

Henry's Fork Chapter

"The Idaho Master Naturalist Program aims to develop a corps of well-informed volunteers to actively work toward stewardship of Idaho's natural environment."

About the Idaho Master Naturalist Program

The IMN program is a statewide program housed by the non-game department of IDFG, but implemented through citizens who adopted the program into their communities. The program works to include volunteers in local research/outreach efforts by giving them the education and training needed to better understand their local environment.

How is an Idaho Master Naturalist different from being a Volunteer?

Becoming a Idaho Master Naturalist means that you have completed the 40 hours of training and courses (provided through your local chapter) to become a “certified naturalist” in your area.

Being certified shows local agencies/groups that you are a trained, dedicated and dependable resource. Thereafter, certification is renewed annually upon completion of 40 volunteer service hours to approved organizations.

Who can become an Idaho Master Naturalist?

Any adult who enjoys nature and has a committed interest in helping local agencies/non-profits in the watershed is encouraged to participate in the IMN program.

Become Active in Your Local Henry's Fork Chapter

- Participate and guide conservation efforts led by the Henry's Fork's local agencies/groups.
- Become educated about the Henry's Fork through course work and field trips.
- Further your activism and education in nature.
- Have an opportunity to give back and educate your community.
- Join dozens of other citizens who share your interest about conservation.
